Manuscripts, Presentations

Invited and accepted contributed papers will be published in a special issue of Acta Physica Polonica A (APPA). The papers will be subject to an internal review procedure of APPA.

Manuscripts (original + 1 copy), prepared according to the guide to authors of papers (pdf version of guide is here) in APPA, should be delivered to the conference office on the first day of the conference (i.e. Monday, June 22, 2009). An electronic version of the manuscripts will be required after the reviewing procedure is finished.

All the contributed papers should have character of short conference communications and they must not exceed the length of two printed pages in the Acta Physica Polonica A.

There is no length restriction for invited papers.

Please notice that APPA has recently switched to modern two-column layout of its publications (see a sample here).
According to APPA publication procedure, the prepared manuscripts shouldn't be in camera ready format. To help you estimate the length of the manuscript, we present here few hints.

A guide to estimate the length of paper as it will appear in print

Two printed pages of the new layout of Acta Physica Polonica A are equivalent to about 9000 characters of text. This value excludes the title, authors list with three different affiliations, about 250 characters long abstract and PACS numbers, all of these being equivalent to about 3200 characters.
One column of two-column page consists of about 58 lines of text with no formulas, figures nor tables. Each line of text in one column consists of about 55 characters. Using formulas or tables, their equivalent length in characters can be estimated individually using formating for such column of text given above in word editor. Also, an equivalent length of reference list should be estimated based on such column's format.
One figure of square shape, positioned in a single column of printed text, is equivalent to about 1400 characters including short caption. Symbols on figures should be well-readable after reducing the size of figure to fit into a single column.
Section titles mentioned in the APPA guide to authors of papers may be omitted in short conference communications papers adopted by this conference.
(Two printed pages in APPA with the new layout are roughly equivalent to 4 old-layout pages used previously in the proceedings of "Jaszowiec" conferences. One page of old-layout contained approximately 42 lines with 80 characters per line.)
